Mary Institute
Chronicle 1985

Christy -

The year is almost over, and I made it through in one piece (an amazing feat w/you & Missy around!)

This year has definately been fun filled and exciting since I met you. From coming up with a nickname during "I never Saw Another Butterfly" to breaking stairs while building the set for Madwoman ~~to~~ to ~~the~~ the present, I have had the honor of knowing you * * *

~~Now that I've gotten over my temporary fit~~
~~at Missy~~

Seriously ^{during it} This year really has been great, knowing you has made ^{this} one of my best and favorite year at M.I..

I really don't know what else to write, as I've told Missy when I wrote her something, I am not very good at writing, or saying what I really feel, or really want to say, but hopefully you will understand - and not pick on me tooooooo much. ~~at all~~.

Love,

J.B., D.J., or Debbie Fablan

... The celebration of Mary Institute's 125th anniversary which reflects upon the enthusiasm of the entire school community. Whether it be on the hockey field, in the classroom, or on the Beasley playground, the students are readily apparent in all their endeavors. People are talking about the friendly atmosphere at Mary Institute which is not only evident, but constant. In each of their pursuits, the students are seeking new challenges, discovering the importance of a good education. The trend towards activism has resulted in increased student participation in extracurricular activities. By attending numerous athletic and fine-art activities, the faculty and administration have also been supportive of students' interests. People are talking about the arrival of the new headmaster, Mr. Anthony Fruhauf and how the school community has been overwhelmingly flexible in accepting these changes with both enthusiasm and optimism. People are talking about what a great and successful school-year 1984-1985 has proven to be.

From the left clockwise: 1. The C Team Cheerleaders meet with one of their sponsors, Mrs. Llufrío. 2. Fourth Graders Meegan Williams, Missy Ebeling, Natasha Neal and Pratima Rau concentrate on directions from their teacher, Mrs. Templemeier. 3. Art appreciation starts early at Mary Institute. Here we have a royal example with First Graders Fred Waelter, Amy Alikhan, Anjie Latta, Laura Wood, and Jaime Kennedy. 4. Eighth grade cartographers Nell Blatherwick, Liz Metzner, Cathy Goldring, Laura Luaders, and Rachel Dorris pause for a moment from their worldly work. 5. Mr. Houser listens closely as his Seventh Graders explain a finer point of Spanish (Yishiau Leu, Sonali Gunawardhana, Kathy Williams, Anna Loughlin and Christy Morrow). 6. Senior Tracey Callaway studies the face of Senior Nancy Bates for a reaction. (Sorry, Tracey; Nancy's not talking while the flavor lasts.) 7. Mr. and Mrs. Hudson Jones know Mary Institute well since their two daughters graduated from here. Now they return for Grandparents Day to see one of their two granddaughters, Molly Fryer. 8. First Graders Laura Wisland and Lindsey Dunagan are obviously caught up in one of the many great books in the Middle School library.

Seniors Tracey Callaway and Molly Finch make the Senior Room everybody's room with first graders Amy Alikhan, Janice Park, and Anjie Latta.

Left: Hillary Olk proves that kindergarteners can really swing when the sun shines in St. Louis. Above: Marla Friedman, Julie Lampros, Simone Morovitz and Debbie Jablon take time out of their tremendous freshman workload to play the nation's number one game Trivial Pursuit. (They have their priorities straight!)

Even seniors have to study as Stephanie Schnuck does her work in the Senior Room.

Right: Senior goalie Missy Hopmeier watches her teammates with mixed emotion: ready to defend the goal, but hoping the ball stays at the other end of the field.

Below: Kindergartener Julie Lewis works diligently on her shop project.

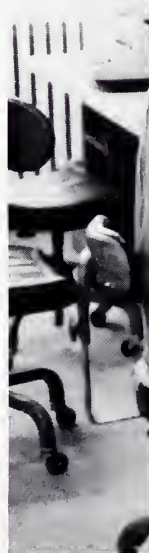

Ninth graders Debbie Jablon and Tara Levine are intrigued by Mr. Peck's science class.

Senior Jackie Dana takes up "ghostbusting" in her free time.

Mrs. Scott tries desperately to explain the subjunctive to a confused French class.

ABove: Freshmen Kim Cooper and Rebecca Durr pretend to study French, but we know there's a Superman comicbook hidden behind the book.

Left: Smurfettes Heidi Oakley and Margot Murphy pose with Mr. Handler who is dressed in his image of himself.

Debbie Jones watches senior Julia Morris break the record for the most french fries stuffed at one time.

"... And if elected President, I promise ..."

Mr. Dlugosch, Ms. Gould and Mrs. Kayes relax in the new Faculty Room.

"You're putting what on your salad?!" inquires freshman Tammy Cason of Abby Thompson.

A new cult forms at Mary Institute.

Mr. Niemann and sophomores Laura Dickens and Wibby Stevenson are either discussing chemistry or the latest dance steps!

Senior class president Denise Bentele presents the class gift of a painting at the 125th Anniversary celebration.

Top: A chorus line of Beasles (Andrew Blair, Scott Pratt, Barry Hamilton, David Samuels, Hana Tepper, and Liz Bryan) is a "singular sensation"! Above: "All work and no play in the Upper School? Tory George and Julie Garagnani study hard while (Right) Beth Voght plays "Hot Lips" Hoolihan from T.V.'s M.A.S.H. series on Halloween.

Left: Beasley School students Jay Rosen and Cassie Veath blossom at Grandparents' Day. Below Left: Ms. Alexander's seventh grade science class examines the salamander living in their indoor ecosystem. Below: Tradition is important to Mary Institute, and there is no question that our seal is a symbol of our tradition. But do we step on it or walk around it as we enter school?

Dedication

Mrs. Galt, the class of 1985 dedicates this yearbook to you in appreciation for all of the dedication that you have given to us. We have all benefitted from you whether it be in the dance studio, in the college guidance office, or in our weekly class meetings. You have shown devotion to our class throughout our M.I. years. We would like to express our gratitude to you by dedicating this yearbook to you.

For all of the love and support you have shown to each of us as well as the entire school, the Class of 1985 dedicates this yearbook to you, Mrs. Wittmann. You have shared with us thirteen years of learning and friendship, and you have taught us many things about love and life. Your gentleness and understanding has brought many of us very close to you. Thank you. We will never forget the spirit of kindness that you have brought to Mary Institute, and it is with this dedication that we make a humble effort to repay you for your devotion.

With much love and gratitude,

The Class of 1985.

We were talking about the space between us all, and the people who hide themselves behind a wall of illusion-never glimpse the truth, then it's far too late when they pass away. We were talking about the love we all could share. When we find it, to try our best to hold it there. With our love, with our love, we could save the world-if they only knew. Try to realise it's all within yourself. No one else can make you change. And to see you're really only very small, and life flows on within you and without you. We were talking about the love that's gone so cold, and the people who gain the world and lose their soul. They don't know. They can't see. Are you one of them? When you've seen beyond yourself, then you may find peace of mind is waiting there. And the time will come when you see we're all one, and life flows on within you and without you.

Talking to a friend is thinking aloud.

Alexandra Tatiana Hantz

El Hijo

Ay hijo, sabes, sabes
de donde vienes?

De un lago con gaviotas
blancas y hambrientas,

Junto al agua de invierno
ella y yo levantamos
una fogata roja
gastándonos los labios
de besarnos el alma,
echando al fuego todo,
quemándonos la vida.

Asi llegaste al mundo.

Pero ella para verme

y para verte un dia
atravesó los mares
y yo para abrazar
su pequeña cintura
toda la tierra anduve,
con guerras y montañas,
con arenas y espinas.

Asi llegaste al mundo.

De tantos sitios vienes,
del agua y de la tierra,
del fuego y de la nieve,
de tan lejos caminas
hacia nosotros dos,
desde el amor terrible
que nos ha encadenado,

que queremos saber
cómo ere, qué nos dices porque tu sabes más
del mundo que te dimos.

Como una gran tormenta sacudimos nosotros
el árbol de la vida
hasta las más ocultas
fibras de la raíces
y apareces ahora
cantando en el follaje,
en la más alta rama
que contigo alcanzamos.

Eleventh Grade

The Junior class had an exciting and productive year. Their main objective was to raise money to fund the Junior-Senior Prom. They organized many projects under the leadership of class President Alicia McDonnell, Vice-President Susie Wells, Secretary Susan Homeier, and Co-Treasurers Tracy Kaye and Jane Arnold.

Bagels were sold weekly and baked goods were sold at various athletic events. A pants day was held at the end of September and for Halloween a pumpkin sale took place. An aluminum can drive was an on-going fund raiser throughout the year. The fund raiser that proved to be the most successful was a seventh and eighth grade dance held in October. For the "Midas at Mary" auction, the juniors donated individual services. Some girls helped mothers clean up after parties and others helped people wrap Christmas gifts.

In the spring, the juniors were assigned their eighth grade little sisters. The girls were kidnapped early in the morning, taken to breakfast and forced to go to Country Day where they were signed and tied around the flag pole. The day was a great success and everyone had fun!

Despite taking the PSAT and SAT, the juniors worked hard and successfully provided themselves as well as the seniors with a special prom. People have talked about their endurance and high spirits throughout the difficult, challenging junior year.

Tenth Grade

The second year in the Upper School brought on more responsibility for the sophomore class. No longer at everyone's feet, no longer the butt of everyone's jokes, they now had their driver's licenses-they could finally drive alone.

This year the class officers, President Linda Hogan, Vice-President Margot Murphy, Secretary Samantha Gunawardhana, Treasurer Tory George and Student Council representatives, Lindsay Newbold and Barbara Perez were organized and showed a great deal of leadership in all their pursuits.

The sophomores had a challenging and busy year as they were engaged in fund raising activities. They were quite successful in achieving their goal with weekly donut sales and projects such as the Christmas cookie sale, the swim-a-thon, the M and M raffle, and a seventh and eighth grade dance. Their efforts were aimed at raising money for next years prom and proved successful! Candy wreaths were made in the winter and donated to the "Midas at Mary" auction.

In the spring, the class attended a Father-Daughter Dinner where the long awaited class rings were presented. Their class community project was held at a retirement home and was fun as well as charitable.

Following all these projects and events, the sophomore's became a more united class. People have talked about what a rewarding year this had been for the class of 1987.

Ninth Grade

Under the leadership of President Kim Cooper, Vice-President Michelle Leith, Secretary Nikki Lugo, Treasurer Kate Blatherwick, and Student Council representatives Sara Schoedinger and Abby Thompson, the ninth grade class worked hard to take on the challenges of their first year in the Upper School.

This year the ninth grade raised money by weekly bake sales where they sold candy apples, baked goods, and candy. Their car wash held in the fall was such a success that they decided to have another one in the spring. In October they sponsored the Halloween chapel which was not only fun for everyone, but also profitable for the class. All of the proceeds from this chapel helped buy equipment for a daycare center. In February the class held the annual ninth grade dance. They invited the cuties from their class at Country Day, as well as a few members of other classes and other schools. Everyone had a great time! Freshmen have talked about how exciting this year has been since their arrival into the Upper School.

1985 proved to be an exciting and fun-filled year for the class of 1989. As leaders of the Middle School, the eighth graders showed initiative especially under the leadership of President Nell Blatherwick, Vice-President Cary Rich, Secretary Kelly Osborn, and Treasurer Courtney Creel.

The eighth grade started the year off in September with the traditional trip to Kampsville where the class was able to grow closer. In December, the class held a tea for the faculty and throughout the entire year, the eighth grade engaged in various projects ranging from a father-daughter picnic to a "help" project and a fund-raising activity. The eighth grade are eagerly talking about the challenges they will face in the Upper School next year.

This year, people have talked about the fun-filled class of 1990. The seventh graders were productive, interested, and enthusiastic towards the projects that they held throughout the year. Their trip to Jefferson City was exciting for everyone since the girls were able to see the state government in action. Some privileged girls were invited to be pages and help "pass the notes." The class also spent a week at Camp Wyman where they studied pond life. These trips unified the class, and started many new friendships.

In December, the seventh graders did a history project, "Christmas at Williamsburg" which was partly donated to the "Midas at Mary" auction. Each member of the class was able to participate in this project too. They also decorated a Christmas tree and the Alumni room.

The seventh graders had a year full of learning and fun. People have talked about their activism towards school life. They look forward to their last year in the Middle School and hope it proves to be as successful as this past year!

Sixth Grade

The sixth grade had an enjoyable and exciting year. The class of 1991 began uniting themselves when they made a latch-hook rug for the "Midas at Mary" auction. During the holiday seasons, the class also adopted a family and took them food and clothing.

The sixth graders were able to enjoy themselves on their field trips. They visited the Japanese Gardens where they fed the goldfish and visited the beautiful Japanese tea house. The class also visited the Art Museum where they studied medieval sculptures and pictures.

At school and at play, the class of 1991 had a fun, productive year. People have talked about their enthusiasm towards school life.

Rascal by Sterling North

I, Sterling North, found Rascal. This adorable creature bites. He has rings around his eyes and tail. I found Rascal when he was just a tiny baby. He weighed less than one pound. My dad doesn't care where I go. I am free to go browsing through the fields. Rascal loves shiny objects especially diamond rings. The charming, delightful raccoon will make you happy.

The class of 1992 had a busy year, full of work, fun, and excitement. As the new and youngest members of the Middle School, the class successfully adjusted to their new surroundings.

Throughout the year, the class went on many field trips. They attended the Art Museum where they studied the Middle Ages. They also spent an afternoon at Oak Knoll Park. The fifth graders studied mythology and during the "classics week" they presented themselves as mythological characters. They also wrote a book of Haiku poems and drew pictures to illustrate.

The fifth grade class presented a gift to the "Midas at Mary" auction. Each member baked six cookies and gave twenty dollars of them to the auction. People have talked about the new projects, field trips, and special activities the class of 1992 have sponsored. 1985 was a terrific year for all!

Fourth Grade

The class of 1992 accepted their positions as head of the Beasley School with great eagerness. For the first time, the class studied economics and in social science class they learned about the various cultures around the world. For the "Midas at Mary" auction, the fourth graders made pinecone wreaths which turned out spectacularly! Although very busy at school, the class did have the opportunity to take two field trips. They visited the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra and attended the Young Audience version of the Messiah.

The class certainly had a wonderful last year at Beasley school especially from the guidance and support of Mrs. Tempelmeier and Mrs. Boldt. People have talked about what great leaders the fourth graders were this year.

The class went on a field trip to the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra and the Arch which they thoroughly enjoyed. Each member of the class made an "All-About-Me" poster which explained in detail everything about themselves. This was a fun project because a different person became a special person each day which helped boost the student's morale and point out individuality. Their economics class proved exciting as the junior economists learned about the causes and effects of supply and demand. People have talked about what great leaders this class will be next year as head of the Beasley School.

The second graders had a most enjoyable year. They studied health and nutrition which was a lot of fun, because they got to cook and enjoy the foods from the different food groups. They also visited the Continental Baking Company. In their social studies class, the second graders also had the opportunity to study community life, Alaska, the eskimo's, and the Aborigines of Australia. The class also saw filmstrips sponsored by the American Cancer Society on improving their "self-image" and how to take good care of themselves. In the spring they visited the Missouri Botanical Gardens. People have talked about what a great year the second grade class has really had!

The first graders spent the entire year learning how to read. They successfully accomplished their goal with the help of Mrs. Montgomery and Mrs. Nord. Although they worked hard, they also had plenty of fun. On the creative side, they made Indian headresses out of pillow cases and leather and for the "Midas at Mary" auction they made holiday placemats which turned out to be a great success!

The first graders also had the opportunity to go see "The Wizard of Oz." They all had a fun time! Many girls were involved in a popular activity, the Pixies, and the boys played soccer games everyday at recess.

The entire class experienced a year of learning and growing. People have talked about their eagerness to learn and have fun at the same time.

Elissa, what are you getting into?

As the newest members of the Ronald S. Beasley School, the kindergartners were constantly on the go. Under the supervision and leadership of Barbara Larimore and Rita Vitor, they spent the year visiting exciting places in St. Louis.

In conjunction with their history class, the kindergartners visited the Oak Knoll Museum and the Arch, where they studied the Indians. At the Arch, they build a teepee which was fascinating for all! Other trips included the Purina Puppy Farm, Dental Health Museum, Fire Station, Sticker Factory, and Grant's Farm.

The kindergartners studied dinosaurs and the solar system. A new dimension in their academic interests was a study in economics. This class was fun as well as interesting to learn about.

Although they worked very hard, the kindergarten class had a lot of time for fun and excitement. When one student was asked what his favorite part of the day was he answered, "recess," and continued to add "and gym too!" With the arrival of this enthusiastic class, people have talked about their great potentials in learning about school life.

MARY INSTITUTE
101 NORTH WARSON ROAD
ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI 63124

Dear Members of the Class of 1985:

How wonderful that you were here when my family and I arrived! From the start of this year, you have been warmly supportive and responsive, making us welcome and setting an unusually fine tone and pace for our School.

How sad that our time together has been so short! I wish the clock might have been turned back, so that we could have had many more years together.

However, we are fortunate in this farewell, because we share something valued and treasured which will bring us together often in the future: our School. You appreciate, even better than I, the riches and depth of the Mary Institute experience. You have built some of the finest and most enduring friendships for your life; you share precious memories; you have become ever stronger in your ability to meet challenges and rebound from setbacks; you have enjoyed golden opportunities to develop your personal uniqueness and inner strength; and you have made important advances towards achieving your full potential in life.

You have my warm and sincere wishes for success and achievement in the coming years, as you further your academic training and as you build your careers, personal and professional. Most of all, I wish for you an enduring personal happiness and - even through times when that may seem to be eluding you - the perseverance to make of life a blessing for yourselves and all those who know you.

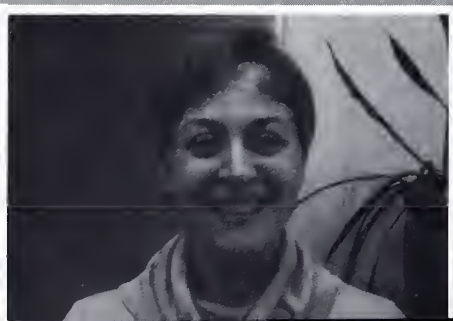

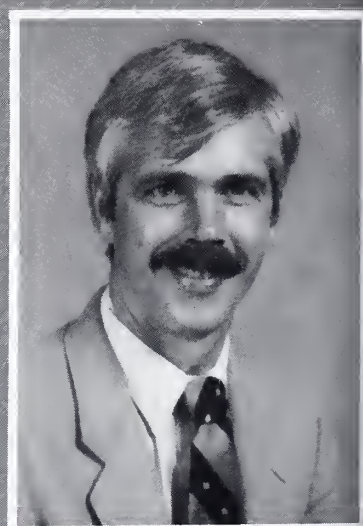

In giving up your role as Mary Institute's senior students, I hope you will all become a close and lively part of the School's lifelong family - our extraordinary group of Alumnae and (down the line!) parents. Above all, please come and visit often.

With best regards,

Anthony B. Fruhauf

Student Council

Upper School

The 1984-85 Upper School Student Council had a very productive and exciting year under the leadership of President Grace Park, Vice President Mary Hermann and faculty sponsor Mr. Lykens. The council is responsible for holding disciplinary committee meetings where students who have broken rules are given a fair opportunity to defend themselves.

Also, the council is concerned with programs intended to improve school life. This year, the council introduced a program to the student body called SADD. It stands for "Students against Driving Drunk". SADD is designed to prevent alcohol related car accidents among teenagers, which is an apparent problem today. The program involves a "contract for life" which is signed by both parents and students which says that in the event that either the parent or the child has had too much to drink, a safe method of transportation will be provided for them, no questions asked at the time. Because of the popular support that SADD received this year, it has become a regular committee for the students.

In an effort to raise money, a raffle was held by the Council. There was a winner picked from Upper, Middle and Beasley School, and the winner was entitled to the position of "Head" of their school for a day. They were allowed to change a few rules (within reason, of course) and make the day fun for everyone.

As a charity project, the Council adopted a homeless child in St. Louis. With the money that was raised, from the raffle, they were able to provide the child with a home, clothing and food.

For the first time, the Upper School Student Council met with the Middle School Council this year. Since the two are so different, the meeting was intended to introduce the Middle School students to the structure of their future Upper School Council.

People are talking about the things that the Student Council has done to make the Mary Institute Community better for everyone.

Middle School

The Middle School Student Council has been very busy this year with many projects. They were ushers for the Middle School Open House. Then they planted their seventh live tree on the campus. Also every afternoon they sold chocolate milk and apples to the Middle School to raise money for their various outside projects.

One of those projects was to collect food at Thanksgiving for the "Someone Cares Mission." They also sponsored ten cases of the "Hundred Neediest Cases" of the Christmas Bureau. They sent a donation for repair of the Statue of Liberty and a sizeable donation to C.A.R.E. for the Ethiopian Famine. In the Spring they sponsored another food drive as well as taking on individual projects to make donations to the Wishing Well Foundation. These will help chronically-ill children at Childrens Hospital.

The Middle School Council has spent the year selflessly making Mary Institute, St. Louis, and as far away as Africa a better place to live. Hats off to you!

Chronicle

It takes more than a year to pull together a yearbook. The co-editors-in-chief, Amy McFarland and Katherine Thomas gained expertise by attending summer conferences during the last three years. The University of Missouri in Columbia and Quincy College in Illinois both offer week-long courses in organization, layout, and photography for a yearbook publication. Friday afternoons during the year were then spent teaching others these areas and how to pull everything together on triple carbon forms as well as computer. Under business manager, Mary Hermann, all previous records were broken by the business staff who made over $6000 selling advertisements. Under copy editor Margee Mauze, the writing assignments were always ahead of deadlines with good informative copy. The photographers were organized by editor Anne Kho. Freelance photographer Bonnie Freeland donated her time to take the formal shots for each class and club. Without the help of faculty sponsor Judy Ware's anxiety attacks, the deadlines would not have been met. ("But, Mrs. Ware, we met that deadline last month! I don't think we owe any more pages.") So after many long hours, late nights, and lots of fun, we present the Chronicle 1985. We hope you enjoy it for many years to come.

DIARY

The Diary has enjoyed an exciting and productive 1984-85 school year. Under the leadership of Editor-in-Chief Carol Platt and Assistant Editor Grace Park, the Diary staff had endeavoured to maintain a high standard of journalism while incorporating interesting and innovative ideas in the paper. There have been special two page issues, the traditional coordinate Valentine's Day issue, and even a prototype "Election Year" edition of the Diary. Feature articles have addressed topics ranging from the initiation of a SADD chapter at Mary Institute (Students Against Driving Drunk), to an apparent "Slump Epidemic."

This entertaining and informative publication would not have been possible without the help of this year's large and well qualified Diary staff, as well as faculty sponsors Tom Dlugosch and Penelope Biggs.

The effort and energy of all those involved in the paper has made the 1984-85 a truly memorable year for the Diary.

Greenleaves

Greenleaves had a very special year, beginning with an issue that celebrated Mary Institute's 125th anniversary and ending with a coordinated issue with Country Day.

Both alumni and students submitted poetry and prose as well as artwork to the 125th issue. Equally exciting was the winter issue which approached the layout in a new way. On each page was a piece of literature accompanied by a picture which depicted the theme of the poem. The year ended with an issue titled the Greenleaves/Review.

Both the staff at Country Day and Mary Institute worked very hard to make this issue a successful one.

The Greenleaves staff should be commended for publishing three insightful issues.

This year the Messing Library Committee was led by co-chairmen's Laura Hoffman and Anne Tureen. The Messing Committee was responsible for completing various tasks in the library. Their duties included such things as jacketing books and sorting card cataloges. The Committee members assisted the librarians in completing paperwork. The Committee also sent a correspondent to The Diary in order to keep students aware of the events in the library. In addition to these duties, the members were also storytellers for Beasley students. The Messing Library Committee completed another successful year and without their help our library would not be the great facility it is.

Middle School Media is made up of seventh grade students interested in media designs and concepts. Through the year they worked on many projects such as a media slide presentation as well as music videos. Under the direction of Bob Salamone, Middle School Media developed into a fun and educational course, which gave the students an introduction to the exciting world of media and sparked much enthusiasm for them to continue in that direction.

Model United Nations proved to be both a popular and successful activity this year for the student body. The Mary Institute delegates traveled to McDonnell Douglas for their first meeting in early October. Such important issues as racial discrimination and poverty in South Africa were discussed. The girls enjoyed their exposure not only to world affairs, but also made many new alliances with delegates from other schools.

The newly founded Committee for Black Students, led by Dawn Prather, has valuable and specific goals: to aid black students academically, socially and personally, to explore black history, and to expose the entire Mary Institute community to Black culture and history. Along with their weekly discussions of current and past black events and people, many guest speakers came to speak to the committee and in Chapel. They included actress Esther Rolle, M.I. alumna Kimberly Renolds, former judge, painter and black historian Nathan Young, former head of the NAACP Margaret Wilson, newscaster Bonita Carnute and former head of choral leadership training, Jacqui Thornell.

With the goals of the Committee for Black Students met, Mary Institute can look forward to receiving the benefits of having more well-rounded, better informed, more highly motivated and more self-assured students.

Chapel Committee

From the mock election in the fall through two episodes of Jeopardy and Black History Month to Mr. Niemann's Chemical Magic Show, this year's Chapel Committee was able to "entertain, inform and amuse" as it had hoped. Under the leadership of Stacey Cooper and Dede Boudinet with faculty sponsors Paulette York and Rose Hagan, Chapel Committee was able to seek out interesting speakers as well as informative programs all year. A new influence on this year's agenda was the Committee of Black Students. They were able to bring in such impressive figures as actress Esther Rolle; historian, artist and judge Nathan Young; and former NAACP chairperson Margaret Busch Wilson. Additional programs included SPATZ-JAZZ group, AFS International Week speakers, and Opera Theater's presentation of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Trial By Jury." Chapel Committee had people talking about getting to school on time to see the excellent chapels. The committee did indeed fulfill its objectives.

Faculty sponsor Alan Handler assists student curators Liane Hancock and Dawn Prather set up a show of Nathan Young's art.

The art curators had an exciting year as they decorated the halls with various exhibitions from the St. Louis area. The first exhibit was a photo history of Mary Institute for the 125th anniversary. The photos depicted the different periods of life at M.I. starting with a daisy chain of the '20's to a picture of the 1980 senior class. A contemporary crafts exhibition and the Women's Caucus For Art were displayed in November and December. In the Women's Caucus exhibition, a juried show, 55 different art paintings, drawings, collages, pastels, sculptures, and ceramics were presented. Six notable women artists, Lee Chubb, Marilyn Clarkson, Elizabeth Cohen, Laurie Manifold, Jill Nassau, and M.I. alumna Beth Rogers, decorated the halls with their beautiful paintings in February and March. A photographic exhibit from the works of Paul Erny, Pat Romano, and April Straub hung in the halls during April and in May, the art students displayed their paintings, drawings, and ceramics. The curators not only decorated the halls with interesting exhibits, but also were hostesses at all the art openings. They helped set up and take down the shows and learned a great deal as they were able to meet each artist presenting their works. This activity is opened to students in the Upper School who would like to glimpse the "backstage" life at the art world. All in all, the art curators had a fun and successful year.

American Field Service had a successful and exciting year. The group welcomed Helena de Silva from Portugal who was a charming girl to all who met her. AFS held various parties throughout the year for Helena and its members. The most exciting party was Helena's birthday party at which DeeDee Thomas was welcomed home from Australia. AFS presented Helena a trip to California and Florida at the party. In addition to continual support of exchange students, the group also sponsored several fund raising activities. A pants day raised $300 for the Ethiopian refugee camps. The group also had a profittable fruit sale. The most exciting week of the year for AFS was International week. Several students were hosted to visit Mary I.. This year proved to be a successful one for AFS.

Choir

The Choir had a very eventful year. The Thanksgiving program was lighthearted with familiar tunes from the "Roaring Twenties." The traditional Christmas performance was unforgettable and the girls sang at Frontenac Plaza once again. In the spring, the choir was privileged to be able to have the accompaniment of a harp and French horns to enhance the beautiful selections by Brahms. The choir was also fortunate in the spring to be able to go and listen to the Vienna Boys Choir as an extra special field trip.

Choir/Madrigals

The Madrigals had a most exciting year. Under the direction of Mildred Coon and co-heads Liz Hanaway and Mary Hermann, the group was involved in numerous projects. During the winter months, the girls participated in the Christmas program as well as caroling in the community and Frontenac Plaza. A special project the Madrigals engaged in was performing at Bellerive, and Old

The girls also sang at The Historical Society for the dedication of the Lienberger Room during this season. The Madrigals took part in the Spring Concert. The girls also performed "An Evening with Gilbert and Sullivan Ladies". Madrigals took a trip to Memphis and sang at two private girls schools there. To raise money for the trip, the girls sponsored several bake sales and pants days as well as installing a candy machine in the Rec. Room. The Madrigals had a busy and productive year.

Middle School Glee Club

The Middle School Glee Club has completed a year of many successful performances, under the leadership of sixth grade president Ellie Zografakis and fifth grade vice president Nicole Montgomery. These performances included a Thanksgiving concert and a winter holiday concert with the Beasley chorus. They went carolling twice; one of those trips was with Intermezzo. In May they topped off the week with a concert for Middle School Fine Arts Week.

Playworkers

The Playworkers are a group of upper-classmen who work together to build the sets for plays put on by the Mary Institute Drama Department. Headed by senior Missy Hopmeier, the Playworkers spent many Saturdays and after school hours in the Freeman Arts Theatre hammering together and painting sets for both the Winter Play, I Never Saw Another Butterfly, and the Spring Play, Madwoman of Chaillot. Both plays had magnificent sets and the time and work that was put into them really paid off. Along with having a good time and making new friendships among themselves, the playworkers were very productive. Everyone talks about what magnificent sets Mary Institute plays have-many thanks to the Playworkers.

Middle School Drama Club

Middle School Drama Club is an open activity offered to the grades five through eight. Grades Five and six study acting basics which includes exercises and imagination games. Some students work on short plays. The seventh grade concentrates on media design and prepares slide presentations and video projects. (See Middle School Media, page 147.) An acting workshop is offered to the eighth grade. The workshop focuses upon techniques, characterization and ply analysis. Middle School Drama is an excellent opportunity for those interested in performing arts and it prepares the students well for more advanced theater in the Upper School. Everyone talks about how much fun they had being a part of the Middle School Drama Club.

Upper School Dance Club

Upper School Dance Club is composed of a group of girls interested in learning about modern dance. The girls learn, practice, and then perform various steps and styles. Technique was taught by Alice Galt after school in the fall. Then the club began to prepare for the Winter Dance Concert. The girls were divided into groups of 5 to 6 and each group choreographed its own dance for the concert. Then the club participated in the traditional May Day performance. Dance Club worked hard and it paid off with people talking about our creative dancers.

Middle School Dance Club is an activity open to all members of the fifth, sixth, and seventh grades interested in extending their dance techniques beyond the classroom. The club worked hard all fall and then put on an outstanding performance before Thanksgiving.

Cheerleading

This year was exciting and challenging for the cheerleaders. Several of the girls went to cheerleading camps over the summer to learn new cheers. The girls began practicing in August to prepare for their busy season. Football was exciting but it rained at almost every game. The girls did not give up however. They kept going. Basketball also proved to be quite exciting. All three squads were decked out in new uniforms. Money was raised by the cheerleaders through bake sales.

S.A.D.D. Students Against Driving Drunk

This year a new student activity was organized called S.A.D.D. or Students Against Driving Drunk. The steering committee kicked off their push for membership with a movie in chapel. The main idea is to keep persons off the road if they have had too much to drink. Students and their parents sign contracts following these basic rules: If a student has had too much to drink or the person driving the car has had too much, she will call her parents instead of risking the drive home. The parents agree to pick up the girl no matter when or where she is and ask no questions. The interesting twist in this philosophy is that the parents agree to call the student if they have had too much.

The committee is working on various projects. One is to raise money for bumper stickers to advertise. Another is to establish a phone number drunk students can call to get home. It is also hoped that a network could be organize to make Proms safer. It has been suggested that while one school has its Prom, the other schools would man the phone and become the "designated driver" for that evening.

Perhaps the best of all, it is nice to know that Mary Institute is helping get this program off the ground instead of ignoring our present and potential problems with drinking.

Brownies

Under the leadership of Mrs. Boisbaubin, Mary Institute's junior troop of twenty-seven fourth grade girls had a busy year. Together since first grade the scouts worked on badges in various subjects, studied first aid, learned about cooking outdoors, rode horses, and had a great camping trip in the fall at the girl scout camp Fiddle Creek in Grey Summit, Missouri. The girls were looking forward to a spring camping trip also.

Cub Scouts

The third and fourth grade cub scouts also had a very busy year working on their various badges and projects. The third graders raised money to help the Ethiopians. The fourth graders raised money to "adopt" a family of six children for Christmas and provided groceries and toys for the season. They also made miniature cars out of pine and did really well at the annual city-wide Pinewood Derby. The scouts took to the woods in the spring with a canoe trip and cookout. There were field trips to McDonnell-Douglass and the Ladue fire and police stations. Also the scouts are to be congratulated upon working through the "bobcat" and "wolf" levels of scouting up to the "webelo" level.

People are talking about Mary Institute Tennis Varsity. With Captain Jeanne Greenberg and co-Captain Leigh Suffian, we had another winning season. We are fast becoming the "team to beat."

We had a team record of seven wins and two losses. Two of those wins were shutouts against Ursuline and Villa. We also came in second in districts. The district team consisted of two singles

Christy Higgins and Jaleen Milligan, and two doubles teams of Carol Platt with Mimi Brown and Laureen Boeschenstein with Leigh Suffian. The latter team won the finals and became the first Mary Institute team to go the State. The team also placed third out of sixteen teams in the Parkway Tournament. We are sure coach Alison Naunheim and the girls can keep the good work next year.

The A team had a very successful season this year. Varsity veterans and talented new comer made the hockey team the strongest it has been in years. Team spirit abounded thanks to the leadership of co-captains Evelyn Armstrong and Mary Hermann. Miss Gill's Coaching and support manifested the overall performance of the team with help from assistant coach, Miss Poulin. Altogether, the A team had eleven victories and only five losses. Julie Jansen and Nancy Bates, the team high scorers, contributed much to these victories. The team ended the season proudly by placing third in the district tournament.

The Junior Varsity hockey team completed a rewarding season with the help of a new coach, Susan Orlando. They all worked together with a tremendous amount of determination and a great deal of hard work. Their spirit was always prevalent, especially at the Burroughs game. The season came to an end with a party at the Zinsmeyers' house where video tapes of some of the games were watched with enthusiasm. Although the J.V. team was not always victorious, they had a very strengthening year and the future seasons look promising.

Athletic Association

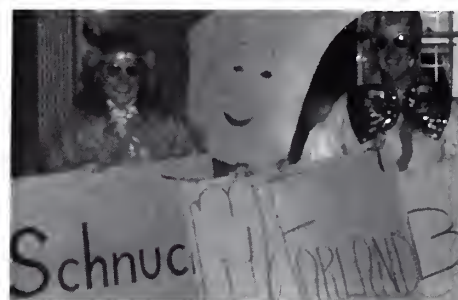

Athletic Association, led by President Stacy Bourne, Vice-President Mary Hermann, Secretary Lisa Rich, Treasurer Julie Jansen and class representatives, Leslie Grunik, Jacinta Gray, Peggy Kenny, and Susan Zimmerman had a busy and productive year. They reformed the point system in order to organize a set system for girls to be eligible to join the Varsity Club. In order to raise money, the girls once again participated in the athletes vs. MS donations. With the help of their sponsor, Miss Gill, the association's year was well spent.

Green and Gold

The Green and Gold team rivalry began early in the school year with the annual Green-Gold chapel. After the nominees for captains ran onto the stage, chaos broke loose. The chapel was filled with cheers, candy and plenty of green and gold. The votes were collected and the new captains were chosen. Amy McFarland and Susan Zimmerman were elected to lead the Green team. Their rivals, Stephanie Schnuck and Stacy Bourne led the Gold team. The teams competed in a variety of athletic events. It was a fun year for both teams!

125th Anniversary Party

125th ANNIVERSARY

1984

September 30, 1984 was a day of celebration for the Mary Institute community. The festivities began at 4 pm in the Chapel. Carrying the 125th Anniversary flag, seniors Denise Bentele and Grace Park led the procession of faculty members and guest speakers to the stage. The Reverend Edward L. Salmon, Jr. of St. Michael and St. George Church gave the invocation which was followed by the singing of Palmam Quae Meruit Ferat by the Madrigal singers. Mrs. John E. Curby, President of the Board of Trustees gave the welcome to which Mr. Fruhauf responded. Addresses were given by guest speakers Dr. William Danforth, Chancellor of Washington University, Mrs. Dorothy Walker Bush, Class of 1918, and The Honorable William Webster, Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigations. In closing, Mr. Fruhauf read the prayer for graduates, the Madrigals sang "Our Fair Alma Mater", and Reverend Salmon gave the Benediction.

After the ceremonies, a reception was held on the front lawn where punch and hors d'oeuvres were served. Denise Bentele presented the senior class gift of a painting to the school. Prints of the painting were sold at the reception as were copies of Greenleaves, the school literary magazine.

The celebration was a memorable event that everyone who attended enjoyed. It will be talked about for another 125 years!!

Midas At Mary

After months of planning and preparation, the excitement of Midas at Mary began on Friday, December 7th with a Preview party of the auction items. As people browsed over the merchandise and entered silent auction bids, they enjoyed cocktails and hors d'oeuvres as well as the company of each other.

On Saturday night, Midas arrived. As the dinner-auction began, the auctioneer stood before 500 friends and Alumni of Mary taking their bids and encouraging them all to outbid one another. The items up for bid were shown by slide projector on the wall behind the auctioneer's podium or displayed by students dressed as Muses.

Among the items up for auction were jewelry, clothing, vacations, and gifts donated by classes. According to one senior parent, the needlepoint tree skirt made by the sixth grade and the needlepoint bench made by senior parents were among the most popular items.

Chaired by Mrs. John R. Roberts and Mr. Edward J. Schnuck, the auction made $175,000 for the school. In honor of this achievement, Mr. Fruhauf declared January 23, 1985 a holiday for all the students of Mary Institute. Midas will be talked about for years by everyone in the Mary Institute community.

Greek Adventure

While many girls were talking about surviving the Ft. Lauderdale strip, soaking up the sun in Sanibel, skiing down the slopes in Colorado and doing the hula dance in Hawaii, a group of energetic girls were preparing for a "Classical Greek Adventure." Under the guidance of Alan Handler, the girls toured Athens, Crete, Rhodes, and Mykonos. The group visited many thrilling attractions including the Acropolis, the Parthenon, the Archaeological Museum, Knossos Palace, and of course, the All American Disco. It was a great opportunity for the girls to learn about the Greek culture and experience the architecture first hand. The "Greek Adventure" is a trip that will be talked about for a long time.

CLOCKWISE FROM LEFT Katherine Stroh, Susie Wells, Laura Cochran and Milly Finch model the latest in Greek furs. Missy Hopmeier, Mr. Handler, and Cynthia Jacobsen pose in front of the Parthenon in Athens. The whole group. You can get anything you want to Alex's Restaurant and Emporium" in Myknos.

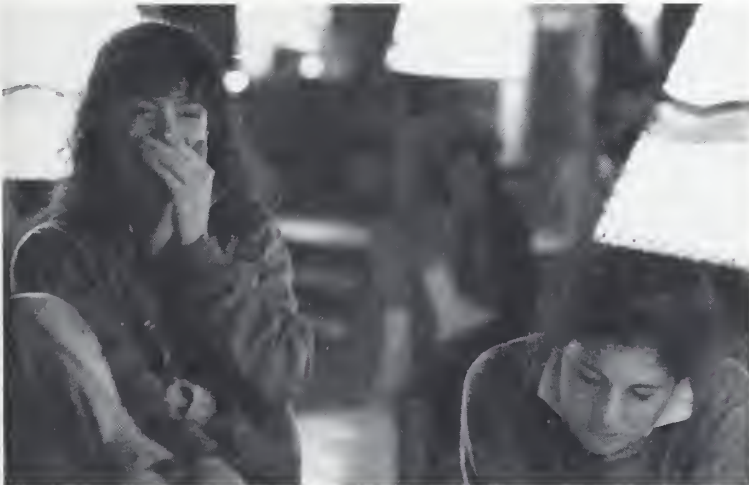

Senior Retreat

Chicken Winging, Rain, Broken-down buses, and vanishing cars. What do all these things have in common? Nothing, unless you add 64 senior girls. And the result? A long-awaited, carefully planned senior retreat.

The Class of '85 found out "who they were" and had an excellent time in the process. Despite transportation problems and the poor weather, the girls found time to not only learn about themselves and their future plans, but to be creative in their entertainment.

Fall Play

Director's Notes:

Although this story is dramatized, it is a true one. Terezin happened. From 1942 through 1945 over fifteen thousand Jewish children passed through Terezin. Many were sent on to die in gas chambers. Others succumbed to hunger and disease. When the Allies liberated Terezin in May of 1945 there were only about one hundred children left alive.

The slides you see were taken from actual photographs. During one segment of the play you will hear excerpts from the children's diaries and the poems they wrote. You will see their pictures which they drew and painted while confined at Terezin.

The cast, crews, and directors of this production remember the Children of Terezin and dedicate I NEVER SAW ANOTHER BUTTERFLY to the memory of those children with tenderness and love.

The 1984 Troubadours production of Little Mary Sunshine was a spectacular performance. The story was set in the early 20th century of Colorado and dealt with Indians on a reservation, forest rangers and a group of girls from Eastchester Finishing School. Debbie Jones played the main character, Mary Sunshine, with Maureen Marrese as her maid. All of the girls worked well with their Country Day counterparts and had a great time performing for everyone! Troubadours was performed in the Orthwein Theatre at Country Day on November 23, 24, and 25.

The Madwoman Of Chaillot is a modern comedy by Jean Giraudoux. It takes place in present day Paris where a 19th Century "madwoman" devises a method to do away with all of the corrupt people of Paris. This humorous play, presented by a cast of twenty six talented actors and actresses, was beautifully directed by Sue Blue. In a quote from her director's notes, she stated that, "Although directing this play has, at times, been rather like directing a three ring circus, it has been a privilege to work with these wonderful characters and the glorious dialogue by Jean Giraudoux." The Madwoman of Chaillot was a very entertaining performance in which all the characters displayed their acting talents.

The Year In Review . . .

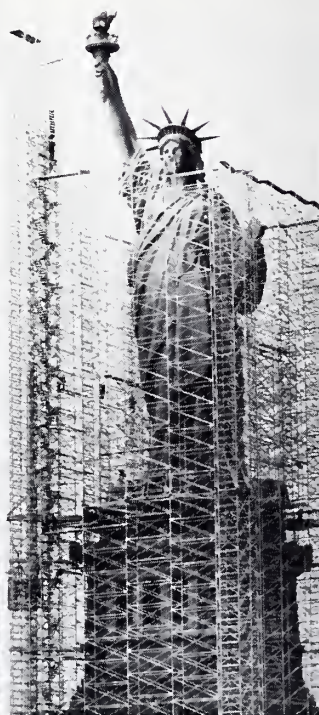

Clockwise from the right: Mission specialist Bruce McCandless takes a walk in space in early 1984. Here he uses the so-called manned maneuvering unit as he moves away from the Shuttle Challenger during the eight-day space mission.; Michael Jackson conducted his so-called Victory Tour to more than a dozen cities.; Democratic presidential candidate Walter Mondale made history when he chose a woman, Geraldine Ferraro as his vice presidential running mate.; President Reagan won re-election with the biggest electoral vote in the nation's history.; The United States Marines arrived in Beirut in 1982. Lebanon was torn by civil war and foreign invasion. In 1984 when the Marines left, more than 260 Marines were dead, Lebanon was still at war.; The United States did very well in the Summer Olympics, winning 83 gold medals, 61 silver medals, and 30 bronze. Carl Lewis won four gold medals. The Soviet Union and other Communist countries boycotted the Summer Olympics.

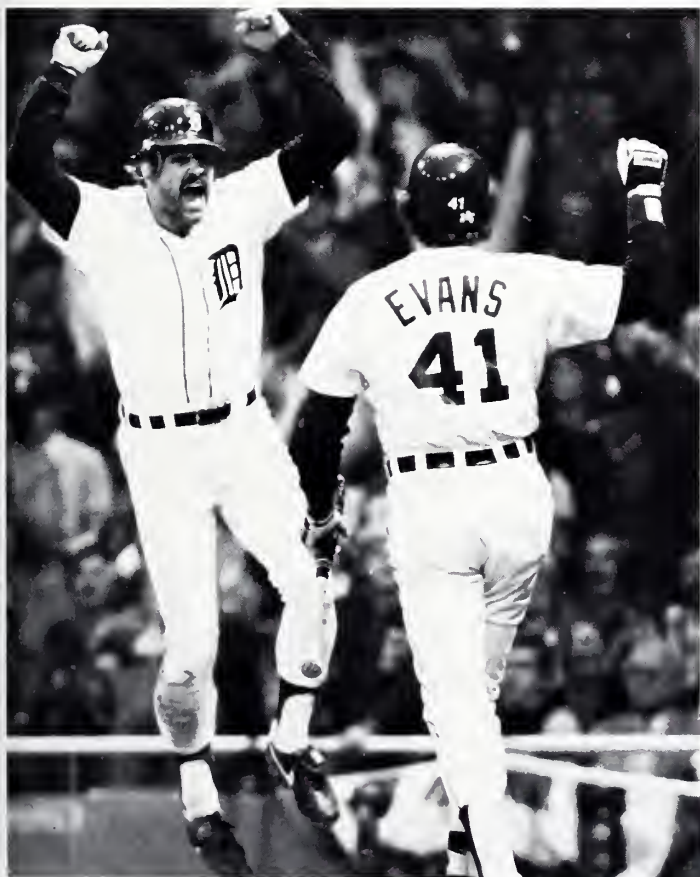

Clockwise from Above: Robert Duvall receives an Oscar for his role in the film "Tender Mercies." Shirley McLaine won the award for Best Actress in "Terms of Endearment."; After years of civil war, open and free elections were held in El Salvador in 1984. Jose Napoleon Duarte was elected President. Pictured, a soldier reads a newspaper headlined: "There is Faith in the Electoral Process."; Chicago Bears' Walter Peyton eyes New Orleans Saints' Whitney Paul as he carries the ball on his way to set the record for rushing; In the Winter Olympics in Yugoslavia, the U.S. won four gold and four silver medals. Pictured, Steve Mahre wins the gold medal in the men's Giant Slalom.; Pope John Paul II was travelling Pope in 1984. Here he is seen at Mt. Hagen, Papua New Guinea where he met some natives; Princess Diana gave birth to Prince Harry in late 1984. A Chronology of Mary Institute Her First Hundred and Twenty-Five Years

"What's past is prologue." --Shakespeare

"It had an atmosphere. Subtle, elusive, but as real as the air you breathe. It had great dignity; there was always the sense of something lofty." Adele Chomeau Starbird M.I. 1909

1859 Dr. William Greenleaf Eliot, Chancellor of Washington University, establishes a nonsectarian school for girls in St. Louis. With the sum of $33,000, a building is erected at Fourteenth Street and Lucas Place. The School is named for Mary Rhodes Eliot, daughter of Dr. Eliot. On 20 September, Mary Institute opens her doors. The first Principal is Edwin D. Sanborn, a graduate of Dartmouth College and a professor of classics at Washington University. About 100 students are enrolled.

1860 On 11 May, the first anniversary of the School's founding, the first Grandmother's Day is held. Established through a bequest by Mrs. Margaret Dawes Eliot, grandmother of Mary Rhodes Eliot, Grandmother's Day continues to the present time.

1862 On 16 June, Calvin S. Pennell, a graduate of Colby College, succeeds Mr. Sanborn as Principal. Mr. Pennell's tenure, spanning twenty-five years, is the second longest in the School's history and is marked by a strengthening of the academic program.

1868 Through a bequest of $25,000 by Hudson E. Bridge, the School is enlarged to accommodate a growing student body. Over 200 girls are now enrolled.

1872 The first Alumnae Luncheon takes place.

1878 On 1 October, the School moves to a new location, on the corner of Beaumont and Locust Streets. More than 300 girls now attend Mary Institute.

1887 Mr. Pennell steps down as Principal and is succeeded by James L. Dillard, a graduate of Washington and Lee University. Mr. Dillard introduces college preparatory courses into the curriculum.

1891 Mr. Dillard is succeeded by Edmund H. Sears, a fellow Easterner and a graduate of Harvard. Mr. Sears' tenure as Principal is the longest in Mary I.'s history, spanning 34 years.

1901 On 4 May, ground is broken at Lake and Waterman Avenues for Mary I.'s third home. The student body now numbers over 400, making the move to larger quarters essential.

1909 Mary I. celebrates her 50th anniversary. At least half her graduates each year now enter college or university. The School's curriculum is divided accordingly, into college and noncollege programs.

1925 Mr. Sears retires as Principal and is succeeded by Henry F. Twitchell, a graduate of Rutgers University.

1928 Mr. Twitchell resigns as Principal and is succeeded by Miss Barbara Cousland as Interim Head. Miss Cousland has been Assistant Principal under Mr. Sears and Mr. Twitchell.

1929 Charles H. Garrison, a graduate of Wesleyan University, becomes Mary I.'s seventh Principal.

1930 In September, as a result of a generous bequest by Mrs. Newton R. Wilson, M.I. 1876, the School moves to its fourth and present location, a handsome tract of about 40 acres at Warson and Ladue Roads.

1940 The first May Day in the new Rodemyer Garden Theater takes place.

1941 Mr. Garrison is succeeded by Miss Grace Heron, M.I. 1901, first as Assistant Principal, later as Principal.

1949 Ronald S. Beasley, a graduate of Cambridge University, succeeds Miss Heron to become the School's ninth Head. (With Mr. Beasley, the title of "Principal" is dropped in favor of "Headmaster.") In this year Mary I. also severs her ties with Washington University, to which she has been financially bound since her inception. Through a gift in memory of Mrs. Frank C. Rand (Nettie Hale, M.I. 1901), the former caretaker's house is converted and expanded, and becomes the Nettie Hale Rand Memorial Kindergarten.

1957 With enrollment well over 500, the School's facilities once again are badly strained. A Centennial Development Program is inaugurated, which in a few short months raises over $1,000,000 for new facilities.

1958 Work begins on a new gymnasium building, which will also house a dance studio. The old gymnasium will be converted into a science wing, including a lecture room and physics, chemistry, and biology laboratories. Meanwhile, a new Headmaster's residence is to be built on a rise overlooking the May field. The former Headmaster's residence becomes home for grades one through three.

1959 On 11 November, Mary I. celebrates her hundredth birthday. Alumnae, parents, and other friends of the School gather in the newly completed gymnasium to hear Thomas Stearns Eliot, distinguished poet and grandson of founder Dr. William Greenleaf Eliot, tell of his warm memories of Mary Institute.

1968 With enrollment at 600, additions to the School's physical plant are once again badly needed. A Capital Building Campaign is launched, which raises $1,500,000 before the end of the year.

1969 In June, Mr. Beasley retires. He is succeeded by James P. Stearns, Jr., a graduate of Harvard. In Mr. Beasley's honor, Kindergarten through grade four become a separate division of Mary Institute, the Ronald S. Beasley School, and are housed in the new Primary School building, named for Mr. and Mrs. Roswell Messing, Jr. Also completed in this year is the new Middle School building, named for Stella Hays Schoenberg. M.I. 1908.

1973 The Freeman Arts Center, named for Margaret Cole Barth Freeman, M.I. 1912, is dedicated in the spring. Dame Judith Anderson takes part in the dedication ceremonies. In the 1973-74 academic year, coordinate classes with St. Louis Country Day School are first offered to juniors and seniors.

1976 Mr. Stearns is succeeded by Edes P. Wilson (now Mrs. Peter Gilbert), a graduate of Vassar College.

1983 In June, Edes P. Gilbert leaves Mary I., and Allen C. Adriance serves as Interim Head for 1983-1984.

1984 In July, Anthony B. Fruhauf becomes new Headmaster at Mary I. Mr. Fruhauf holds a bachelor's degree from Brown University and an M.B.A. from Harvard.

Answer to be mailed to headmaster of MI May 1, 2010. BINARY BITS

In addition, the National Energy Foundation sponsored its own competition, the winner of which received an expense paid trip to New York City to compete on a national level for a $25,000 college scholarship. Eighth grader Kristin Flaschbart placed second in this competition. Congratulations!

Bonjourno! Qu'est-ce qui se passe! Now that I have your attention, check out p. 158 (playbooks) Who is that nut w/ the rope knotted around her neck? What's she planning to do, "hang in there"? (p. 276) (Do I have a choice? etc. a major compulsion.) Quick! Look left! Maybe my Prom prob's would have been solved if only I had known... well, I still have next year to worry about (if I'm not talking just about Prom!) I know I've said it before, but I can't believe it - we're going to be Seniors!! Ergh! I'm getting scared. I know that we should be ^{SPB} we've earned it... wellllll, sometimes we have, but still... Do you realize that right now, May 29, wed, 1985, 9:50 (uh-oh, almost late for Gouldies English class)

... uh... um... er... I've, ah, forgotten what I was going to say (typical or what?) The plays (Sturdays) were profound (how much can Chad eat from M&M's)... Ken was an interesting addition to the chain gang this year - do you believe that he's going to be in Drama class next year? Yes, I finally did get all of the stuff out of my burgundy sweater. Excuse - won't to Steak - n - Shake after Choir practice was unique, to say the least. Thanks again for picking me up. Maybe

I can return the favor. (What?!? You mean... yes as of May 2 I can drive!! (Yes, Virginia - legally!) Uh-oh, now the whole world will feel the effects of a dirty mind. Well, talk to the made-count is in the triple digits now, Geez Louise, this is tough. Well, bud, there are a few things we need to work on - such as Green-leaves, Play-workers, boyfriends, & most importantly, our friendship. (So, like, our topic for today is, like, non-aggressive, non-tensionous (what?) relations) Let's go for it, eh?!?!?

See ya in the funny papers!

Christy -

Thanks for being one of the few the few don'ts. I'm really glad that we've been becoming better friends lately. Don't forget...

The Rabbit ... the Library (& our friend the guard) ... running/skipping at Cathy Bowersox's ... The Lights board

[~~Oh~~ David's already on stage!]

... Going to your house for good before May Day ... Noway not her too ... I didn't know

Your car could move like that...

No more Mr. Marvel ... I wonder who his replacement will be?

It's been fun!

I will definitely see you this Summer!

Love,

Jaleen

for Christy. Thank you so much there when I needed you. You were I appreciate it. You are a good friend and I'm glad I can trust you. Your glad are really helped there but I'm trying with it, let it bug me. I hope you have fun being a senior, but remember the little people. Have a wonderful summer.
Thanks-

Love
